

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS Advisory Committee on Procedures

The Advisory Committee on Procedures was established by the Judicial Council for the District of Columbia Circuit in June 1976, in response to recommendations made by the Commission on Review of the Federal Court of Appeals System, also known as the Hruska Commission. Since 1982, the Court of Appeals has been the appointing authority for the Committee. The Committee was one of the first of its kind in the nation. In accordance with 28 U.S.C. §§ 2077(b), the Committee is charged with studying the rules and internal operating procedures of the Court of Appeals and making recommendations to the Court on possible improvements. The Committee is specifically authorized to design projects and to undertake studies on matters affecting the administration of justice in the Circuit, either at the request of the Court or on its own initiative. The Advisory Committee on Procedures also serves as liaison between the Court and the bar.

The Advisory Committee on Procedures consists of not less than 15 members of the Bar who shall serve three-year terms staggered in such a way as to enable the court to appoint or reappoint one-third of the committee each year. The Court has endeavored to appoint a balanced committee membership reflecting various interests within the bar. Judge Randolph serves as liaison judge to this Committee.
